

“It took all the intelligence of the heart to distinguish between Good and Evil.”

Says Reb Iyon in Edmond Jabès, The Book of Questions

(Great fallen)

city casts

as many needles

of history

as light

What volumes buoy your clouds?

The common riposte is the shadow knows

And well she may

sub any other sky

Here, no character may enter

The stage, itself, the act

